KEY TO SUCCESS

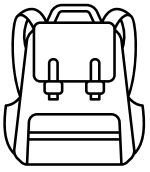

Volunteers from Edison's corporate partner Wabtec provide significant STEM-based programming to students year-round. Through the Connect-A-Classroom program, which provides in-class enrichment, as well as after-school programs like Science Exploration, Edison students have unique opportunities to learn about STEM through innovative, hands-on projects -- and connect with role models!

REGULAR ATTENDANCE

IMPROVED ATTENDANCE RATES THROUGH PROGRAMMING

To address growing rates of absenteeism in past years, Edison's team has worked to expand enrichment opportunities so students feel connected to school. 90% of surveyed students in after-school programs at Edison reported making an extra effort to come to school on the day they have programming. In 23-24, Edison saw:

- a 5.5% decrease in chronic absenteeism
- a 10% decrease in unexcused tardy periods
- a 6% decrease in total days missed

EDISON SUCCESS STORY: CONNECTION THROUGH CULTURE

In 2023, Edison welcomed Silva Alhajkoko as a Community School Coordinator. Silva's cultural background and fluency in Arabic has created and deepened numerous relationships with Edison families. In the past, conversations with Arabic families were held awkwardly through translation applications, but Silva's presence has allowed for more authentic exchanges. Silva has supported peer mediations and communication about basic needs with families, and also facilitated an after-school workshop for Arabic students. Silva's presence has strengthened our ability to connect with families and students, which is the basis of all we do at Edison!
